Volume 4, No. 1 Fall 1991

Dear students,

Welcome from all of us at Services for Disabled Students for the 1991-1992 academic year. All the staff in SDS are looking forward to an exciting and innovative year. We have had a busy Summer session in re-structuring and planning new services and programs, particularly in light of the re-organization of the Student Services under the direction of the Associate Vice Rector, Services (Student Life), Dr. Donald Boisvert.

Services for Disabled Students is now a part of Advocacy and Support Services which consists of the following units: International Students Office, Women's Centre, Campus Ministry, Legal Information Services and liaison with the Daycare Centres. This group was formed with a common goal to promote and defend the rights of students. Ann Kerby has been appointed Director of Advocacy and Support Services and I was very pleased to accept the position of Coordinator of Services for Disabled Students effective June 1, 1991.

These changes reflect a clear indication of the university's commitment to the needs and rights of the plurality of the Concordia student community as well as to the growth of SDS. I hope I will have the occasion to meet with each student in the coming months and wish all of you success in your academic endeavours.

Leo Bissonnette
Coordinator, Services for Disabled Students

Kurzweil Scanner- Personal Reader:

Welcome to the world of the new Kurzweil Personal Reader. This machine is the fifth in the series created by Kurzweil Computer Products developed for blind and print impaired persons. The Reader gives you instant and independent access to the wealth of printed and type-written information that is not readily available in cassette, braille, or large print form.

The KRM is an easy-to-use system which has some powerful features and capabilities. You will be able to use the Reader to scan relatively simple and more complex documents with very little effort.

The Personal Reader will work in the following reading/scanning situations:

1. Type-written documents (or photocopies) of virtually any kind, e.g., course outlines, handouts and examinations.
2. Books and periodicals where the text is in simple format, or in multiple columns.
3. More complex documents which have several columns of text, or text mixed with drawings and photographs. This includes most magazines, newspapers, brochures, advertising, and similar documents.
4. The Personal Reader can be used to communicate with other devices, such as a cassette tape recorder, personal computer, VersaBraille system, and braille printer.

One-on-one training, is offered during the Fall, Winter and Spring sessions.

VOLUNTEER SERVICES . . .

Services for Disabled Students at Concordia provides a range of specialized services designed to help students with a disability realize their educational potential. We are always recruiting qualified volunteers to help deliver the high quality and diverse services our students require.

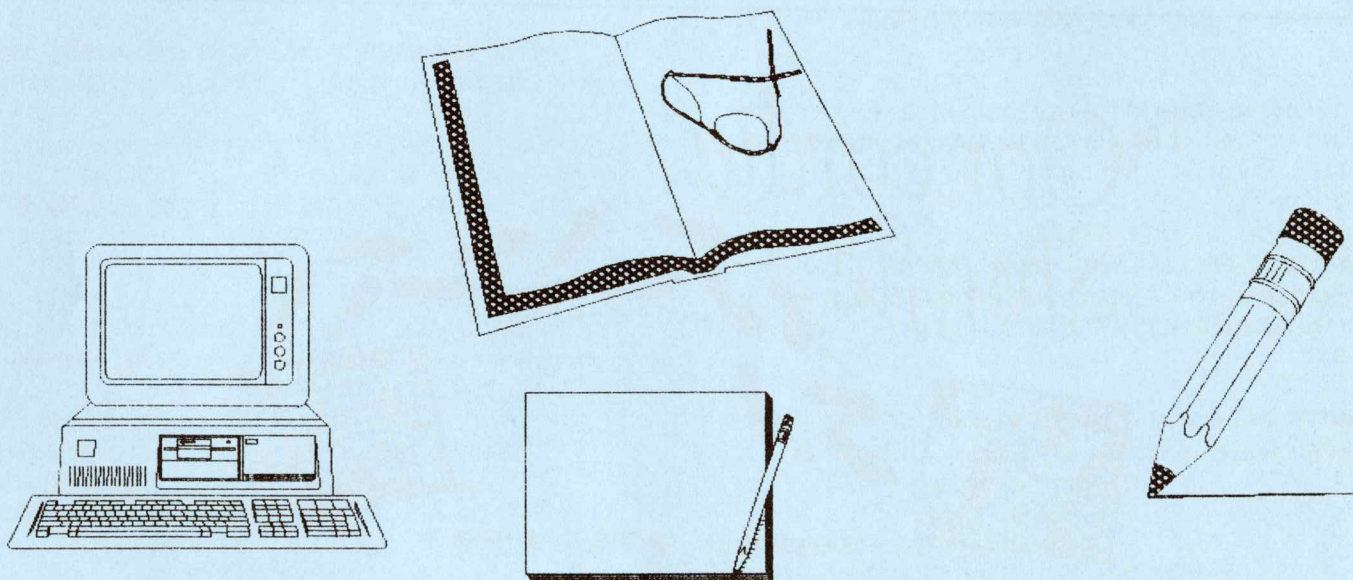

Volunteers in SDS:

Because we provide such diverse services, we seek volunteers from many backgrounds and with many different skills. There are opportunities for faculty, staff, and students.

Our volunteers are part of a team coordinated by the SDS staff. As a participant in one of the centre's volunteer programmes, you work in one of our two locations: AD 121 (LOY) & H 580 (SGW).

After an interview, you will receive a specific assignment in keeping with your talents, skills, and abilities. You will then receive on-the-job training and continuing support. An orientation to the Centre and the services it provides will also be given.

Some possible assignments you may fill as a volunteer:

Reader, Note Taker, Tutor, Editor
Library Helper, Clerical Duties

Note: Students requiring a volunteer can make their needs known to SDS as early as possible in each semester.
